

Graeme Judd

Graeme Judd is a premier voiceover artist with expertise in entertainment marketing and creative advertising. Operating from a state-of-the-art home studio allows Graeme to be responsive to last-minute, quick turnaround projects while delivering voiceover work to the highest industry standards.

Experience

Graeme's journey into voiceover began in his teens as a member of the boy band, Off Limitz. Time spent with music industry legends like David Foster at Capitol Studios in Hollywood ignited his passion for audio production. After studying broadcasting and honing his skills in audio engineering at The Forge Audio Company, Graeme transitioned into voiceover full-time. His career took off rapidly, becoming the brand voice for Nickelodeon and working with top NYC and LA talent agencies.

Expertise

With a focus on entertainment marketing, Graeme collaborates with major US networks and film studios to promote popular shows and movies. His voice is featured on promos for well-known networks and streamers, including CBS, Lifetime, Hulu, and Max. His versatility allows him to work on diverse projects, from network promos to commercials for global brands.

Clients

CBS, FOX, Lifetime, HBO, Hulu, Discovery, Netflix, Nickelodeon, Disney, NBCUniversal, Sony Pictures, Lionsgate, Warner Bros., ESPN, Nintendo, Molson, Hampton Inn, Proactiv...

...and more.

Partnering with Graeme Judd

Industry Expertise

With decades of experience in both the entertainment and advertising industries, Graeme's deep understanding of storytelling and brand messaging allows him to connect with audiences in a way that enhances any project. From TV promos to movie trailers, his voice has become a familiar presence in the homes of millions, giving networks and brands the assurance that their campaigns will resonate with their target audiences.

Proven Success

Represented by elite talent agencies in both New York City and Los Angeles, Graeme has a track record of success with some of the most recognized brands in the industry. His voice has driven the promotional efforts of many high-profile campaigns, proving his reliability and appeal across a wide range of audiences.

World Class Studio

Graeme's cutting-edge home studio, designed by the legendary Walters-Storyk Design Group (known for Jimmy Hendrix's Electric Lady Studio and thousands more), is equipped with the latest audio technology including Source-Connect and ipDTL. This ensures premium sound quality for every project. Clients receive broadcast-ready audio with seamless turnaround, all while maintaining the highest production standards.

Versatility

Graeme's wide vocal range and adaptability allow him to fit any creative vision. He has a unique ability to transition between genres, styles, and tones, making him the go-to voice for any brand seeking a collaborative partner with a proven ability to elevate projects and create a lasting impact.